GENERAL NEWS.

Good Crop Prospects.

ICAGO, July 14.—The latest returns from ultural districts tributary to this market, e very conflicting, seem to establish pretty ly that in the whole northwest the winter t crop is saved in good order and with aga yield, that the spring wheat crop is as e less to an acre than last year, but that an eased acreage will make the yield some- t greater than that of 1879, provided the ther becomes a little more favorable. The nations of extreme heat and drenching s have jeopardized the crop in some sec s, particularly in Minnesota and Wisconsin, the latest advices indicate the prospect of e favorable and settled weather and unless prospects are changed the spring wheat p will be safely harvested within two or e weeks.

Oats will not be as short as last year, the yield ng large and the safety of the crop practi ly assured.

The universal report respecting corn is that acreage is largely increased. The condi n is excellent and prospects for a good crop as good as ever before. The only excep n is in the wet lowlands where corn has been rly flooded out. It is however true that the op is not quite as forward as [illegible] and some fears of early and destructive sts are entertained.

As a whole the prospects for the great grain owing belt of the northwest is flattering and other fine crop year will doubtless contribute magnificent sum to the national exchequer d cause a continuation of the easy times in orthwestern states.

The Inter-Ocean's Washington special says e statistician at the agricultural department ill to-morrow give figures showing that while ere has been some damage by drouth in the orthwest, yet the crops as a whole are in a lendid condition. The heavy rainfall has en the chief source of injury. He believes e increased acreage will produce a great de line in value.

Reports from California show that perhaps ne-fifth of the wheat will be shrunken wheat, ut the amount for export will, as in the north- est, be vastly more than in the previous year. t may be so large that such a decline will fol- ow as to make a very nice question of rate of eights east as to whether the northwestern armers can afford to produce grain for the rices which will rule.

Crop abroad is found to be above the average most countries with an increased acreage so, and this state of things will likewise tend to epress the market. The corn crop will be [illegible] suffered somewhat in Illinois but [illegible] to have will be heavy.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14. The crop reports ndicate the wheat yield will be very heavy. The damage from the late north winds in most ases proves to be less than was supposed and he increased acreage will make up for any iminution in yield where most affected.

Serious Illness of Sen ator Cameron.

CHICAGO, July 14.—The Inter-Ocean's Wash ington special says Simon Cameron arrived en route to the Sulphur Springs, whither he has been summoned on account of the failing health of Don Cameron whose steady decline alarms his friends. The worst is feared unless the disease is arrested. It is suspected overwork may have brought on quick consumption.

Thurlow Weed on Garfield's Letter.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Thurlow Weed thinks Garfield's letter proves, in the language of Daniel Webster "that his nomination was one fit to be made." His utterances are frank and fearless. His views upon all national questions clearly and succinctly stated. His sentiments and sympathies are all in the right direction. This declaration of principles fortified as it is by a record which proves his capacity, integrity and fidelity, insures a united, active, and vigorous republican canvass in favor of Garfield and Arthur.

Tanner's Fast.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Dr. Tanner is more cheerful and not quite so weak to-day. His pulse is 95, temperature 98, and respiration 14. At noon he was weighed registering 132 pounds, a loss of 25½ pounds since commencing the fast. He drank water frequently during the morning.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Dr. Tanner still keeps up. To-day he drank forty-four ounces of water and to-night he weighed 133½ pounds, being an increase of 1½ pounds over this morning. His pulse is 98, temperature 98, respiration 18. He drove in Central Park and returned feeling well. Doctors think him good for some time yet, no alarming symptoms being discovered.

San Francisco Stock Boards.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—The stock board will hereafter hold a short session just prior to the informal session for the exclusive sale of local gas, water, bank, insurance, railroad, powder and other miscellaneous stocks and federal, state, and county bonds.

Peculiar Accident.

NEW YORK, July 14.—An accident occurred on the Long Island railroad between Pearsville station and East Rockaway this morning. The gravel train going east with 300 Italian laborers on board, ran under a heavy wire rope by which a derrick near the track was sustained, sweeping the cars and knocking off laborers. Many were maimed in a shocking manner. Many had their knees fractured. Three are fatally hurt.

The accident occurred on the recently constructed branch of the Long Island road, built to reach the new hotel at Long Beach. Twenty-six laborers were seriously injured and it is believed six fatally.

Wool Market.

BOSTON, July 14.—The wool market is quiet but steady. The holders are not urging sales and the manufacturers indifferent. The large amount of foreign wool now held by manufacturers and importers is causing buyers to be cautious about operating to any extent. The demand runs on fine wool.

The Hot Weather.

NEW YORK, July 14.—There were one hundred and seventeen deaths in this city in the past 24 hours, 70 children under one year, the latter mostly from the effects of heat. Four fatal sunstrokes are reported. This evening the thermometer is 90°.

CHICAGO, July 14.—There were over thirty cases of sunstroke yesterday according to the reports received last night and this morning. Thirteen of them were fatal. It is much cooler to day.

LOUISVILLE, July 14. The thermometer is 95°.

Irish Republican Convention.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 14. The Irish national republican convention met in this city to day. Two hundred and fifty delegates are present. Judge A. L. Morrison, of Illinois was temporary chairman, and Thomas McThecy, of Indiana, temporary secretary. Judge Morrison's speech was brief and pointed. He said business of vital importance would come before the convention and he urged the necessity of brevity in all speeches. The committees on credentials, on addresses, on resolutions, on permanent organization, and on political information were appointed with instructions to report to-morrow morning.

An invitation from the Irish republican club of this city to join in torch light reception to-night was accepted and the convention adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow.

Mr. Porter, the republican nominee for governor, arrived from Washington to-day and had an enthusiastic reception. He was met to night by a torch light procession and by the Irish republican club. General Harrison welcomed him and he responded in a lengthy address.

President Hayes' Plans.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—President Hayes will not go west this week as reported, but will remain here till the middle of August. He proposes to pass a couple of weeks in Ohio and attend the reunion of his old regiment on the first of September, after which he will make a visit to the Pacific coast.

Mining Stocks.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The World says very little business was done at the New York mining stock exchange to day until after the first call, but the market then became very active and the sales aggregated 71,680 shares against 27,779 yesterday. The opening prices were about the same, but fluctuations during the day were greater than usual and active; stocks closed generally lower.

Dying.

LEWISTON, ME., July 14.—The Journal has it from a good source that the democratic convention in session at Lewiston Thursday night, has decided it inexpedient to fuse even on governor and the democratic committee has asked Plaisted to resign and he has agreed to do so. The committee adjourned to meet at Portland on Thursday of next week at which time a call will be issued for the regular state convention which will be followed by district and county conventions. If this is true, the end of fusion [illegible] in Maine is near at hand.

Democratic Committee Call on Tilden.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The democratic national committee reassembled this morning, Senator Barnum presiding. The number of the executive committee was increased from 13 to 17. The following were then appointed an executive committee: W H Barnum, Connecticut; F O Prince, Massachusetts; Geo T Barnes, Georgia; Wm C Goudy, Illinois; Austin P Brown, Indiana; M M Ham, Iowa; Henry D McHenry, Kentucky; J H Kelley, Minnesota; A H Sulloway, New Hampshire, Orestes Cleveland, New Jersey; Abram S Hewitt; New York; Wm Randal, North Carolina; Wm M Armstrong, Ohio; Wm L Scott, Pennsylvania; Thos O'Connor, Tennessee and B B Smalley, Vermont. After the routine of business the committee adjourned at the call of the chair.

The members subsequently proceeded in a body to the residence of ex-Governor Tilden to pay respects to that gentleman. The executive committee will organize to-day.

The committee on reaching Tilden's residence, Gramercy Park, were received by Henry Tilden, the ex governor's brother, Senator Kernan, Augustus Schell and others. When Mr. Tilden appeared looking unusually well, ex Governor Stevenson said the committee charged with the duty of informing Hancock and English of the high trust which had been tendered them and which they have accepted, would have but half performed their duty if they did not come to pay homage to him who by a large majority was elected four years ago. Your noble self denial in laying down all your claims to the exalted office of president of the United States, because you did not desire a civil war, does not differ in any way from your noble and straightforward character. There is still another patriotic self denying of record in your favor and that is relinquishing the just claims which you had on the people of the country for a second term for those acts of self-denial. The patriotic democracy of the United States pray to the almighty power that your life may be prolonged for many, very many years. More particularly that you may live to see the country and its constitutional government retrieved from the many incumbrances heaped upon them, as well as a rectification of the basest fraud perpetrated upon the people by the overwhelming defeat next November of the republican party. I speak not only the voice of this committee but the voice of the democratic party throughout this broad land who unite in paying you homage, simply because of your patriotism, virtue and exalted statesmanship. We know that the country and constitution would have been as safely guarded by you as by Madison, Jefferson, or Jackson had you been installed president. The speaker here read the resolution in reference to Mr. Tilden passed by the Cincinnati convention and said it expressed the feeling of the entire democracy.

Tilden replied, I thank you for the kind terms in which you have expressed the communication you make to me. The solution which enables the democratic party of the United States to vindicate the right of the public to choose their chief magistrate, a right violated in 1876, and at the same time relieve me from the burden of the canvass and four years of administration, is most agreeable to me. My sincere good wishes, cordial co operation as a private citizen, attend the illustrious soldier whom the democracy have designated as their standard bearer in the presidential canvass. I congratulate you on the favorable prospects with which that canvass has been commenced and the promise it affords of complete and final success.

LATER. The democratic national executive committee elected Wm. H. Barnum, chairman, F. O. Prince secretary, and General Duncan S. Walker, of Washington, assistant secretary. The members of the democratic congressional campaign committee waited on them and made a long statement as to their views, as to how the campaign should be carried on.

Arthur's Letter.

NEW YORK, July 14. The Tribune of to day says General Arthur is engaged upon his letter of acceptance. It will be made public probably on Thursday. On that day Arthur and one or two friends leave town for a brief vacation before entering upon the duties of the campaign. It is understood that Senator Conkling will join the party for a fishing excursion in northern New York.

Death of a Veteran.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Hon. John A. Campbell, at one time governor of Wyoming and later third assistant secretary of state, died at his residence here this morning. He served with distinction in the Army of the Cumberland from the first day of the war until its close, when he was one of its best known staff officers, having acted as General Schofield's adjutant during the closing years of the war.

State of Business.

NEW YORK, July 14. To-morrow's Public will contain the usual weekly table of clearing house exchanges for the week ending the 10th, and considering that there were only five working days in the week against six days last year, the reports are encouraging. Every city except Louisville reports an increase and even there the loss is only 6 5 per cent. The most noteworthy feature of the business since July 1st have been an enormous eastward movement of grain and an increased demand for iron and a slight hardening of prices. It is believed by many that these are signs of a prolonged improvement. It is well to remember that the grain shipments have become large because the supply in Europe is well nigh exhausted.

FOREIGN.

Gambetta's Opposition.

PARIS, July 14. Henri Rochefort's new paper, the Intransigeant, was issued this morning. It declares bitter war against the supporters of Gambetta.

The Great Fete Day.

PARIS, July 14.—Last evening the illumination of the cathedral of Notre Dame was tested in preparation for this evening. The whole building has been overspread with lamps concealed in such a manner as to throw their light upon the cathedral without the spectators observing its source. The whole building was thrown into a bright relief and looked like giant structure of porcelain.

The national fete promises to be a marvelous success. The weather is superb. The streets are all decorated with flags and garlands. There is an enormous crowd, but perfect order. Very few police are seen in the streets.

PARIS, July 14—The grand opening ceremony of the national fete took place in the hippodrome at Long Champs this afternoon, President Grevy accompanied by a brilliant staff reviewed the troops and delivered the new colors to the regiments in the presence of a hundred thousand people. On presenting the flags he said the army had become to France a guarantee for the respect due her and for the peace which she desired to preserve.

At the conclusion of his speech which occupied only a few minutes there were enthusiastic cheers and shouts of "vive la republique," "vive Grevy," and a scene of patriotic enthusiasm.

The illumination to-night is very brilliant and the streets are thronged. Petards are let off in all directions. Gambetta made a tour through the central quarters and was received with immense enthusiasm wherever he went. The Place de la Bastile, avenues, and streets are lit like the day in all quarters of the city. The principal buildings and squares are illuminated and many beautiful transparencies are displayed. The musical performances on a grand scale are going on in different districts of the city. A vast crowd is at these performances. The streets although full of patriotic exultation and excitement are very orderly.

NEW YORK, July 14 Twenty-three French societies celebrated the French national fete to day in Washington Park. French Consul-General Bruil was present and made an address and was followed by other French residents of the city. There were games of different kinds and a congratulatory telegram was sent to President Grevy.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—The French citizens celebrated the anniversary of the taking of the Bastile with much spirit to-day. There was a grand display of bunting all over the city. The French and Swiss societies, military companies and citizens marched in procession through the streets to the Grand Opera House, which was elegantly decorated for the occasion. Ex-United States Senator Sargent delivered an oration in English. There were also addresses and a poem in French and vocal and instrumental music.

This evening the French societies marched to Woodward's garden, where a banquet is now in progress, to be followed by a display of fire works and a ball.

Too Much Rain.

LONDON, July 14.—Heavy rains have caused great damage to hay and other crops in the midlands of Warwickshire and Leicestershire and other parts of the provinces.

DUBLIN, July 14.—Excessive rains prevailed nearly all over Ireland for the past fortnight, and are beginning to excite serious apprehension in regard to the harvest.

Parnell Obstructing.

LONDON, July 14. The house of commons met at noon and went into the committee of the whole on the disturbance for disturbance bill. Two hours were consumed in disputing. The Irish members denounced the government's course, regarding the bill as weak and irresolute.

Parnell said the bill as amended last night ought to be rejected.

Lord Edward Cavendish, (liberal), brother of Lord Hartington, thought as matters stood the passage of the bill was hopeless, and after the attitude assumed by Parnell, the government would be justified in abandoning the measure.

Gladstone said if the rejection of the bill was desired, a proper motion to that end should be made. He advised the house to go forward with the details of the bill and not tolerate the continued violations of the rules of proceedings, as the character of the house was concerned in upholding the established methods of transacting business.

The Irish members talked out the session of the committee, preventing action on government amendments.

Gladstone said the government was determined to persevere with it and not to be thwarted with this sort of opposition. He appointed to-morrow for a continuation of the debate.

The Pall Mall Gazette, speaking of the above, says the line of policy announced by Parnell and his seventeen supporters leads to indefinite obstruction. It is easy to declare it to be improbable that the minority of the home rulers, who are themselves a very small minority of the house, are not only to impose their policy on Irish legislation, but are to be at liberty, if they are resisted, to stop English legislation. But the remedy is not easy. The forms of the house may be amended, but, even if the disturbance bill is thrown out to morrow and Parnell suspended for the rest of the session, the only result would be to make the agitation more certain and dangerous when the session is over.

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT,

JAMES A. GARFIELD.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

CHESTER A. ARTHUR.

Republican State Central Committee.

HEADQUARTERS STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE, DENVER, COLORADO, July 5, 1880.

A meeting of the republican state central committee is hereby called for 10 o'clock, a. m., Thursday, July 15, 1880, to be held in Denver in the old senate chamber, Walhalla Hall, to fix a time and place for holding the next republican state convention. A full attendance is especially desired. JOHN L. ROUTT, Chairman.
HENRY WARD, Secretary.

The value of the circulating medium of this country in gold is now $735,522,956.37.

Garfield has given assurances by his career in congress that he will keep the pledges in his letter.

Ex-Senator Barnum, the re-elected chairman of the democratic national committee, is the man who used the mules in the Indiana election in 1876.

The Springfield Republican sees this danger in the election of Hancock: "But we do see that any democratic accession would be likely to empty seventy-five thousand offices and fill them with democrats and the accession of a soldier, with the training and the associations of the camp, would be fair ground for the apprehension that he might pick out the seventy-five thousand new incumbents from precisely the same material which General Grant gathered around the White House for eight years, to our national humiliation and disgust."

Mr. Gil Atchison is in the city obtaining subscriptions to the Denver Inter-Ocean. He ought to meet with great success. The Inter-Ocean is by far the best weekly paper published west of the Mississippi. Its managing editor, J. Brisbin Walker, has had a successful and brilliant career in the newspaper profession. He will conduct the political department, in which will be forcibly expressed the honest convictions of one whose whole life has been devoted to the study of political questions under exceptional advantages. The Inter-Ocean in the few months it has been in existance has become universally recognized as a political power. It is under obligations to no one, and though a republican paper will be independent and fearless in its criticisms. General Hall will have charge of the mining department, W. E. Labor the agricultural and Harrison Mills the art department. The best writers in the state are numbered among its contributors. The paper, because of its merits is sure to be a permanent success.

The Rev. Dr. Barnas Sears, who died a few days ago, probably did more for the advancement of learning in this country than any man of this century. This is saying a great deal in a century that produced a Mann, a Taylor and a Wayland. The feature of Dr. Sears' work is that he did the work of a lifetime in each of four different educational spheres in a useful life of eighty years. First at the Newton Theological Institution he moulded and inspired men like Drs. Hackett, Hovey, Ripley and Lincoln. Later he succeeded Horace Mann as secretary of the Massachusetts board of education. In this position he did a great deal to elevate the standard of scholarship and made a permanent success what had been an experiment with Mann. In 1855 he succeeded Wayland as president of Brown University and was a worthy successor of one of the most eminent of American college presidents. In 1867 he took charge of the Peabody Educational Fund and occupied this position until his death last week. In two of these great trusts he succeeded men who had established a world renowned reputation, and this has eclipsed to some extent the equally valuable work Dr. Sears. He was pre eminent for his wide, accurate, and elegant scholarship. All students and teachers who came in contact with him were inspired by it. Considering the length of his life and the diversity of his work, from the primary school to the professional institution, it is safe to repeat that he has done more to raise the standard and widen the scope of American scholarship than any man of this century.

PARTY RECORDS ON FINANCE.

The News is claiming the democratic party has the honest money platform and should hence be entrusted with the management of the nation's finances. Mere party professions in platforms amount to little. The records of the two parties must be the final appeal to judge as to what either party will do in the future.

The war closed in 1865. Then the public debt amounted to $2,756,431,571.43 with an annual interest of $150,977,697.87. The promise of the government to pay a dollar was then worth 70 cents in gold. We were borrowing money at six per cent. interest in gold with our bonds discounted from 30 to 40 cents. In other words we were paying 10 per cent. interest in gold for money. Since that time the republican party has had charge of the nation's finances. How well it has executed its trust a comparison between 1865 and 1880 will show. These are the facts. Our debt now is $1,919,326,747.75 or a reduction of over $837,000,000. Our annual interest is now $79,213,981 or a reduction of over 71,000,000, nearly half. The rate of interest now is 4 per cent. and the bonds at a premium, so that we are really paying only about 3¼ per cent. interest. This is a reduction in rates of interest of nearly two-thirds. Some idea of the effect of this reduction in principal and interest may be obtained when we think that had the principal and interest remained until now the same as in 1865, we should have paid out $645,000,000 more in interest on the debt than we have. The average annual reduction in interest for the fifteen years has been $43,000,000. The greenback worth 38 cents in 1864, 70 cents in 1865 and 66 cents in 1866 is now worth par. This is the result of the financial policy of the republican party. In a word it has brought the nation's promise to pay a dollar from a discount of 62 per cent to par, it has reduced the interest on the public debt from 10 per cent. to 3½ per cent., its economy has reduced the debt $837,000,000, and its scrupulous regard for the nation's obligations has made the refunding measures successful, thus saving the government $645,000,000 in interest in fifteen years. This is the financial record of the republican party.

What is the record of the democratic party. From the beginning it has opposed every measure that the republican party has favored to bring about so healthy a condition of our finances. In 1868 it attempted to impair our credit and prevent the funding of the debt at a lower rate of interest by declaring the 5-20 bonds were payable in depreciated greenbacks. Had the party come into power that year the funding operations of the past fifteen years would have been impossible. When the republican party in 1875 passed the resumption act it was opposed by the democracy. Their platform in 1876 demanded its repeal. In 1874 the democratic party demanded such an unlimited issue of greenbacks that their value in gold would have rapidly decreased and resumption would have been impossible in the next twenty years.

During the last session of congress, when the democrats were in the majority in both branches, Secretary Sherman asked that a bill should be passed allowing him to fund the $235,000,000 of six per cent. bonds and $485,000,000 of five per cent bonds which will soon fall due. The funding of these bonds in four per cents. would have saved $9,550,000 in annual interest and if funded in 3½ per cents. $13,150,000. But the democratic congress devoted its time to the repealing of election laws and the Fitz John Porter case so that it had no time to say that the secretary of the treasury might save the government $13,150,000 in annual interest. In brief the democratic party has opposed every measure that would reduce the rate of interest on the debt, that would save the hundreds of millions of interest money by wise refunding, and that would bring the greenback to par. Its conduct has been hostile to the nation's credit and creditor, and friendly to depreciated currency and repudiation of promises.

The position of the democratic party on the financial question has been unpatriotic because always against the interests of the republic. It has been opposed to sound economical principles in all its positions except one in 1862. Then it could not be unpatriotic and unsound in finance at the same time. Hence it chose to be unpatriotic. When the nation's life demanded in 1862 the dangerous experiment of the issue of paper money, the democratic party opposed. It saying, it is an unsound currency. However in 1874-78, after the nation was out of peril, and we were approaching a sound financial basis, it favored the increased issue of the unsound currency, whose issue it opposed in 1862 when every patriotic impulse demanded it. The democratic party has always been unpatriotic on the financial question, and always unsound except in a single instance when it must have been patriotic at the same time. For fifteen years it has favored every financial heresy and hostile attack on the nation's credit. These two records speak for themselves. Comparison is unnecessary.

Garfield's Letter.

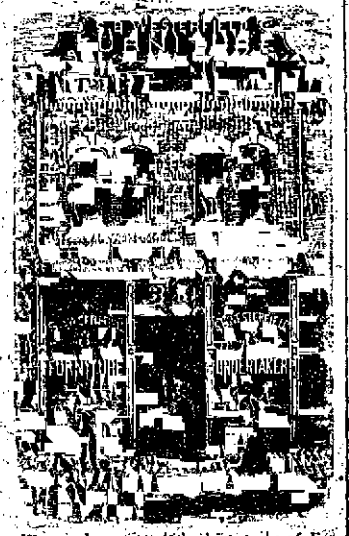

If any doubt as to his opinions on any important questions exist, he points to his seventeen years' record in the national congress, and to his votes and speeches on them as illustrating his views, and the policy which will govern his administration. As a whole, and even separately, the letter is an admirable document, frank, manly, statesmanlike and honest. It will do much to increase the confidence in which he is already held, and to spread the enthusiasm with which his name is already received. Denver Times.

A Suggestion.

Lieutenant-Governor Tabor has been suggested as Chairman of the State Central Committee. It is intimated that a movement to this end is on foot.—Denver Tribune.

Thrifty English.

The following little story, illustrative of the ingenuity and thrift of the Hon. W. H. English, Democratic candidate for vice president, is vouched for as true. Many years ago, when he and his father both lived in Scott county, Indiana, a subscription was being raised in the town of Lexington to build or repair a church. The paper was first presented to the old gentleman, Major Elisha G. English, who, being of a somewhat liberal turn, subscribed thirty-five dollars. In the course of a day or two the paper came around to the son, W. H. English, present candidate for vice president. When the paper was handed to him, he glanced over the list of names and subscriptions, as any man would, and when his eye fell upon his father's name his countenance indicated a sudden turn of thought. By degrees his face was illuminated with a genial smile, and taking his pen he wrote after his father's name "and son," making it read; "Elisha G. English and son, thirty-five dollars." Whether the old gentleman paid the entire subscription or allowed his son the pleasure of dividing it with him the story does not state. The facts as far as stated are well attested.—Indianapolis Journal.

The proprietors of the brewery have determined to put down prices of the above so as to command the trade of El Paso county. The prices now are as low as any beer, and the article is one hundred per cent better, both as a beverage and health-giving properties. Ale and stout cost more to produce, and always command much higher prices; but, as we wish the public to judge for themselves is the reason for the great reduction. Once used, always used. It is as far above lager beer as the finest imported wines are superior to domestic.

Patriotic Children

Patriotism has not yet died out in the noble old Commonwealth of Massachusetts A worthy deacon at Chicopee Falls saw some one light a match in one of the churches at a rather late hour Sunday evening, and suspecting burglars or tramps, endeavored to hunt up the police to inves tigate the matter. He enlisted a neighbor in the service, and carefully approached the church, only to find it occupied by some of his young relatives, and other associate sons of the first families, who had got in at the window, and were quietly waiting, with hand on the bell rope, the hour of 12 that they might promptly salute the birthday of the nation. The deacon was much relieved to find that matters were no worse, but the boys and girls were not pleased to have their patriotic scheme frustrated.

Wolf Plague.

France is at present suffering from a plague of wolves, no less than half a million of these animals being estimated to exist in France at the present moment
The damage inflicted by these creatures in their nocturnal raids from forest and mountain is estimated at about 50,000,000 francs annually. The whole number of wolves is the more surprising as a regular body known as the Louveterie, and numbering close upon 1,000 men, is maintained spe cially to keep down wild beasts, but from the returns just published it appears that only 355 wolves were killed in 1879 Two bills have been introduced on the subject, and it is proposed to place a high price on the head of each wolf as high as 200 francs in the case of a known "man eater"

ABE ROBERTS,
Manager, "MOUNTAINEER."

Our letter list yesterday was the largest ever published in this city. 162 letters were advertised.

Miss Millie Christine, the two headed woman, leaves for Pueblo to-morrow. The exhibition of this afternoon and evening will afford the last opportunity to see her in this city.

Major T. G. Stevenson, who has just returned from his sheep ranch on Horse Creek, informs us that Stevenson & Dye have saved 85 per cent of lambs, the best showing that we have yet heard of. On his ranch on the Purgatoire, Mr. Stevenson says that their sheep, numbering over 4,200, averaged over six pounds of wool. One wether sheared 20½ pounds, while many yielded 14, 15, 16 and 17 pounds each. Two yearling lambs sheared over 13 pounds each.

South Park Stock.

The South Park cattle growers' association have postponed their annual round-up until the 15th of September. The ranchmen claim that the grazing has been so poor during the entire spring and summer that the stock is not in a fit condition to be driven or worried much. Some of the stock owners are making arrangements to gather their cattle and drive them to the valley of the Eagle river in the Gunnison country, where the feed is reported to be in an excellent condition. The drouth on the plains has driven many cattle into the South Park that do not properly belong there and the combined herds have exhausted the feed entirely. The recent rains have materially started the grass but the stock men are of the opinion that the early frosts will kill the grass before it is properly cured and thus render winter feed very scarce.

Personal.

Mr. J. S. Wolfe went north yesterday.

Mr. Gil Atchison, of the Denver Inter-Ocean, is in the city.

Hon. J. M. Oakes, of the Kansas Pacific road, arrived at the Beebee house, Manitou, yesterday.

Messrs. L. A. Grant, J. E. Sinman, and W. F. Marley, left the Cliff house yesterday for the Peak.

Hon. G. C. Corning, one of the proprietors of the Morning Star mine, is registered at the Colorado Springs Hotel.

Mr. J. D. Abet, the prominent cigar manufacturer of Denver, is among the permanent boarders at the Cliff house.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sanger and the Misses Sanger of New York city, are among the recent arrivals at the Beebee house.

Mr. A. K. Clark of the firm of Messrs. Knight & Clark, of Denver, accompanied by his wife, is spending a few days at the Cliff house, Manitou.

Among the recent prominent arrivals at the Cliff house, Manitou, are Mr. A. R. Moore and wife, Miss Emma Moore, and Mrs. M. A. Espy, of St. Louis.

Hon. L. C. Carnes, lieutenant-governor of Nebraska, accompanied by his wife, came down from Denver yesterday and will spend a short time at Manitou.

Mr. C. D. Tows returned Tuesday night from an extended tour through California and Arizona. He has some very valuable mining properties in the last named state.

Mr. William A. Butler, Mr. Charles H. Butler, and the Misses Mary and Hattie Butler, of Brooklyn, New York, are spending the summer at the Beebee house, Manitou.

The Misses Nannie, Margaretta and Elsie Schell, daughters of the Hon. W. P. Schell, state auditor of Pennsylvania, have apartments at the Beebee house, Manitou. They will remain during the season.

Mr. David A. Gage, the proprietor of the Grand Central hotel at Denver, spent yesterday in the city. He is again taking up the hotel interest and it is to be hoped that he may arrive at some definite conclusion before he returns to Denver.

The Delayed Trains.

Trains on the Denver and Rio Grande are still being detained by the heavy washouts between Little Buttes and Pueblo. The first train that has carried passengers since 4:10 p. m. Monday arrived in this city at 11:45 last night. A large force of men has been kept constantly employed in repairing the damages sustained by the heavy storms on Monday night, and there is still about six miles of track in an impassable condition. All passengers going north and south yesterday were transferred a distance of six miles in wagons that had been obtained at Pueblo. Upon the arrival of the train the conductor announced that the passengers would be given 40 minutes in which to procure supper and about 100 availed themselves of the proffered opportunity as many of them had been detained on the Pueblo side of the washout all day without anything to eat. The crowd first made application at the Springs hotel for supper but as no preparation had been made for them they were sent elsewhere. The famished crowd then visited the various other hotels and restaurants in the city but in every case met with a reception similar to the one accorded them at the Springs and many of them were compelled to return to the train without a morsel to eat. The hotels received twenty minutes notice that there would be a hundred for supper. The hotels think the notice was too short and the train men think the hotels were not enterprising. Any way 100 passengers went away indignant because they could get nothing to eat.

Passengers think it will be impossible for trains to pass over the washout until this morning, but efforts will be made to transfer more passengers either to-night or at an early hour in the morning. The hotels in this city were crowded with passengers anxiously waiting for transportation south. The eastern mail last night was unusually heavy as it was the first that had been received via the Santa Fe since Sunday afternoon.

The Colorado Springs and Manitou Railroad.

We announced in the columns of the GAZETTE a few days ago that the first excursion train would run over the road next Saturday, but the recent rains have caused so much delay that the road will probably not be completed till some time next week. The washout on the Rio Grande south of Little Buttes required the services of all the men that could possibly be obtained and hence the men employed on the Manitou road were used to assist in repairing the break. The road bed is entirely graded with the exception of about a quarter of a mile at the Manitou end of the road. Laborers were yesterday working on this section and the probabilities are that the grading will be completed to night. The bridges of which there are quite a number are about finished and are built in a very substantial manner.

Ties and rails have been laid between this city and Mr. Frank Flannigan's ranch just south of Colorado City, and would have been completed to Colorado City last night had not the construction train, which was engaged on the work, been ordered to assist in repairing the washout at Pinon station on the D. & R. G.

No arrangements have as yet been made in regard to the running of trains. We have been informed that a local Manitou express will be put on between Denver and Manitou, and in addition to this local trains will be run between Colorado Springs and Manitou during the day and evening.

The station at Manitou will be located on the hillside directly opposite the Manitou house, and according to the design drawn by the architects will be handsome and well adapted to the convenience of the travelling public.

All residents at Manitou are looking patiently forward to the completion of the work as they are of the opinion that this connection by rapid transit with Colorado Springs will materially affect their business interests by offering the public speedier as well as cheaper opportunities of visiting this attractive resort. The hotels at present claim that the season is unusually dull and they also are in hopes of being benefited by railroad connection.

City Jail.

At a recent meeting of the city council the city clerk, Mr. McGovney, was instructed to advertise for bids for the building of the new city jail. The building is not to be a very large or elaborate one and will only be used for the confinement of city prisoners. It will be constructed on the city property located on Nevada avenue between Huerfano street and Pike's Peak avenue. The plans for the building are as follows: It will consist of four cells and an office and will be constructed of stone with iron doors and windows. The plans have been so arragged that another and a larger building can be added at any time should it be deemed necessary. At the next meeting of the council the contract will be let and the building will be completed as soon as possible.

We now have it from authentic sources that General Grant will arrive in Colorado Springs next Saturday. He will spend Friday at Trinidad and El Moro and start for Colorado Springs over the D. & R. G. on a special train Saturday morning. Steps are being taken by Mayor Bacon and a number of other public spirited citizens to receive him in a becoming manner.

SPANISH GOLD.

Story of How Two Men Found a Settlement of 1,530, and an Abandoned Mine.

The Leadville Chronicle contains the following story of the discovery of an old Spanish mine and settlement which has the merit of being exceedingly interesting if not absolutely true in all its details:

"That," said a well known Leadville assayer, indicating a piece of odd looking ore which he held in his hand, "that piece comes from a mine with a history perhaps as singular as anything you ever heard."

He then related a story in substance as follows:

The mine from which the ore was derived is situated somewhere on the line of southern Colorado and Mexico. The spot in which the mine is located is a beautiful green valley in which summer eternally prevails, with only one outlet through a dark cleft in the towering rocks, which from the outside would never be discovered except by chance.

About the year 1521, when the Spaniards under Cortez penetrated Mexico, and overflowed the country surrounding, a number of the lawless Andalusians, camp-followers or whatever the occupation of those who drifted into the beautiful country along with the large host of soldiers, detected some of the conquered Indians wearing ornaments of massive gold upon their persons so directly different from any of the precious metal the secret of whose deposit they had long before wrested from the simple natives, that they at once concluded that it must be derived from a mine whose whereabouts was yet a mystery to them.

A number of the venturous vandals from Spain, the destroyers of Mexico, tracked some of the Indians at different times into the mountains, and by this means finally discovered the whereabouts of the hidden mine in the valley. It was fully developed and seemed to have been operated by the intelligent aborigines for a long time. Suspicious, even of their comrades, they took surreptitious leave of the Spanish settlement, removed their effects to the hidden valley and founded a colony there, erecting houses and in due time developing themselves into quite a large and busy community.

In 1560 Cortez began his incursions into the vast mountain districts lying north of Mexico. By some strange happening his soldiers learned of the existence of the isolated colony, and guided by an aged Indian they found the lonely mountain pass which leads to the hidden mine. Under the pretext of administering punishment for the crime committed against the Indians, Cortez had the whole colony executed. This done, he selected a number from his own force, and leaving them to operate the mine, ostensibly in the interest of his government, he pressed on toward the north to prosecute his search for more hidden treasures.

The new colony was less successful in the management of the mine. Strife prevailed among them, and extended to the Indians. One dark night the Indians in a countless force poured into the sleeping valley and inaugurated a feast of blood, in which nearly three hundred Spaniards sacrificed their lives, none escaping to tell the tale. As suddenly as they had come they departed, leaving a dreadful scene of carnage behind them. The improvements went into delay, and Cortez returning by another route the valley was forgotten and centuries cast their shadows over its bloody history.

Last spring two young men, named Charles Ackerman and William Ramsey, left Leadville with a pair of pack-burros, two ponies, and shovels and picks, to go on a long prospecting tour. They strayed into southern Colorado and having for a long time wandered aimlessly about among the rugged hills, going out of the way of hostile Apaches, and creeping along dim Indian trails where, perhaps, never a white man sat foot, they sought refuge in a deep cleft in the mountains one stormy night, and there built their camp fire. The ruddy glare of the flames penetrated far into the dense gloom of the cavern-like retreat, and actuated by an irresistible fascination that drew them onward, they supplied themselves with a burning brand and set out to explore the mysterious region beyond the circle of the light. They at last debouched into the hidden valley containing the colony of death, but being unable to discern their surroundings at night, they passed the hours until daybreak at their campfire, and in the morning made a visit to the ruined settlement. Strange-to-say, possibly owing to the shelter which the high mountain ranges afforded the valley from the fury of the elements, the massive adobe walls of the ancient settlement were still intact, and entering them they were everywhere confronted by the mouldered remnants of human bones and skeletons, crumbling to dust at the slightest touch of their hands.

In a letter which Ackerman writes to his Leadville friend, and from which the particulars of their discovery of the hidden valley is drawn, he says:

"We at first did not know what to make of the strange spectacle presented to us in the ancient city of the dead, with its skeleton inhabitants and the wild air of desolation and ruin brooding over the scene. In every one of the primitive structures we found unmistakable evidence and traces of civilized society, readily convincing us that the settlement was not, as we at first imagined, the handiwork of an intelligent branch of the ancient Navajoes. On the inner walls of the one of the largest of the adobe houses, we found the remnants of a heavy cuirass, evidently at one time the pride of a bold Castilian warrior. As we prosecuted our researches through the settlement we made the discovery that with few exceptions each house bore the name of its former occupant, traced in the adobe when it was soft, directly above the entrance serving the purpose of a door. These names were purely Spanish, and from my diary I transcribed the following: Sylvestro Rodrigo, Miguel Bandara, Sancho Pizara, Francisko Mancha, Lopez, and a hundred others. In one or two places we found dates covering a lapse of years, extending from 1530 to 1563, convincing us that the settlement must have flourished for a period of thirty years at least. At a depth of a foot in the ground, which seems to be the layer which time covered upon the scene, we unearthed Indian arrow heads of a somewhat primitive character, as well as metallic substances, which again proved to us that centuries back a fierce war had raged here, between the original lords of the soil and the Spanish invaders, and that the latter were overpowered and had perished at the hands of the red warriors. It was all quite plain to us, and in the signs which nature had preserved as a record of the past, we read that Cortez, the conqueror of Mexico, had here spent a short period of his illustrious existence, to what end and under what circumstances I must leave to the solution of one gifted with a more creative and fertile imagination than I possess.

"But to the point. Drawn onward by our discoveries to search the valley from one end to the other, we found in one of the most obscure portions of the same, indications of gold-bearing quartz on a dump, where it was probably placed centuries back, and soon after, we alighted on the shaft of an ancient mine from which it had, to all appearance, been derived. The mouth of the shaft was entirely choked up with rocks and boulders which had broken from the mountain side and found lodgment here, and was wildly intergrown with rank bog weeds and shrubbery. Guessing that we had struck a bonanza too valuable to expose to any contingency of a chance of discovery by any others, without opening the mine we took possession, packed our animals the second day after our entrance into the valley, and returned to Del Norte, where we at once filed our application in the local land office to take possession of the valley, under the homestead laws, and additionally secured our mine by a patent. We hired a gang of men and set to work developing our bonanza. Such it proved to the most sanguine degree, and in a short time I hope to have amassed a fortune which, hyperbolically speaking, will enable me to return to Leadville and purchase the whole camp, including all the best mines. The specimen I send you is from the Cid, as we call our mine. By return letter tell me what you think of it."
